

NORTH ISLAND, SEYCHELLES

THE LOVED-UP COUPLE: Prince William and his new bride Kate Middleton, must have been delighted to be jetting off to the Seychelles for their ten-day honeymoon after the huge fanfare that surrounded their nuptials in 2011.

THE LAYOUT: Before tying the knot, the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge had travelled to some aspirational destinations together, but North Island, one of the most exclusive holiday resorts in the Seychelles really raised the bar. The chic, colonial-designed villas located on the water's edge have fresh water plunge pools and private gardens, plus a personal chef who, with no menus available, prepares seasonal fresh food to suit your taste. A butler mean you won't have to lift a finger for the duration of your stay.

THE LARKS: Get back to nature on this paradise island where the resort's resident ecologist makes it easy to get up close and personal with the exotic wildlife such as baby turtles.

THE LEVY: From AED26,918/US$7,328 per villa per night, Tel: +27 610 89 0462, north-island.com, @live.north

TUNINGI SAFARI LODGE, SOUTH AFRICA

THE LOVED-UP COUPLE: The Queen's grandson Peter Phillips and his wife Autumn embarked on a sensational safari to see the 'big five' in the malaria-free Madikwe Game Reserve.

THE LAYOUT: The thatched lodges, with their al fresco rock showers, offer colonial African chic amongst the rolling hills of this exclusive game reserve, which is home to a variety of wildlife including elephants, lions, leopards and rhinos, plus endangered wild dogs. The resort's stunning infinity pool overlooks a very active watering hole where you can watch the majestic local wildlife cool down and hydrate in their natural habitat.

THE LARKS: You'll be in safe hands with the lodge's impressively knowledgeable game rangers who will expertly share their passion for the area whether you choose a game drive or a walking safari.

THE LEVY: From AED1,860/US$506 per person per night, Tel: +27 11 781 5384, seasonsinAfrica.com, @tuningi_lodge

LAUCALA ISLAND, FIJI

THE LOVED-UP COUPLE: Swedish royals Prince Carl Philip and Sofia Hellqvist jetted off to Fiji for their honeymoon in 2015.

THE LAYOUT: Belonging to Red Bull owner Dietrich Mateschitz, Laucala is one of the world's most exclusive private islands and is much-loved by various celebrities including Oprah Winfrey and Elle Macpherson. This private refuge set amidst coconut plantations and Instagram-perfect white beaches is all about style and sustainability.

THE LARKS: This idyllic retreat offers a range of activities, but be sure to fit in some snorkelling as you may catch a glimpse of the island's local marine residents such as turtles and angelfish.
