Amal and George Clooney and the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge are just some of the celebrities that consider this private island worthy enough for a honeymoon destination. The island's remote location and impenetrable perimeter makes it the perfect paparazzi-free zone.

In addition to its 11 villas, this £5,000/night locale is home to an open-air restaurant, plunge pool, beautiful beaches, white sand and palm trees. If all of this wasn't enough, the island has also received a National Geographic World Legacy Award for its efforts preserving its natural habitat. Kudos.
